

Observational evidence suggests that supermassive black holes. Active Galactic Nuclei the release of gravitational energy in a compact accretion disk surrounding the SMBH at the core of the galaxy, generating emission across the whole electromagnetic spectrum.